

Donna Marie Stumpf, Senior Director of Development and Marketing

Donna joined Animal Humane's team in January 2007. A Wisconsin native, she moved to New Mexico in 1987. The Land of Enchantment was the perfect fit for her as she instantly fell in love with the beautiful skies and people that filled the state. She entered the nonprofit world at NPR member station WVPE in Elkhart, Indiana and was instantly hooked on the 501(c)3 environment.

In 2007, she joined Animal Humane's Team as the Development Director...again a perfect fit. Every day she remains impressed with the collective passion, knowledge and drive of her fellow colleagues as well as Animal Humane volunteers and Board members. She is also moved by the devotion shown by the organization's longtime and first time donors. She knows that collectively, all parties are improving the lives of homeless companion pets in New Mexico...one pet at a time and she feels privileged to be a part of this amazing network.

Donna and her life partner, Tim, are the proud parents of Orbit, an orange tabby, and Sassafras, an American shorthair tortie, both Animal Humane graduates.
